Dona York died April 20th, 1897.
Dona, though gone will be remembered by a number of friends and companions who were her associates through life. Her sister Clara died two weeks previous; both of these were school children of the writer, and closely attached to a number of school mates who mourn their departure; we regret very much and sympathize with friends and relatives in their bereavement. Miss Dona was conscious to the last, and requested the text that her funeral should be preached from. She also sang a song before her death (Shall we Meet Beyond the River) in which her friends joined in the singing. She was interred in the cemetery at the High Prairie M. E. church on April 21st, 1897.

They are so small that the most sensitive persons take them, they are so effective that the most obstinate cases of constipation, headache and torpid liver yield to them. That is the way De-Witt's Little Early Risers are known as the famous little pills.—Boschert & Williams.

A dance at David Hunt's on the west side of the river last Saturday night was the scene of much pleasure and enjoyment.

Most of the G. A. R. boys in this vicinity say they are most too busy to spend much time at the Chanute encampment.

James Kirk, of Sedalia, Mo., was looking over the territory in and around Shaw last week with a view of purchasing and locating in this vicinity.

Jake Mann contemplates moving from this vicinity in search of another location. We shall be sorry to lose him, as he is a good, straightforward citizen.
